More Trouble For The Czar

TERRORISTS HURL BOMBS

Strike Series of Blows In Widely Separated Parts of Russia.

St. Petersburg, May 28.—Dispatches received here concerning the bomb outrage during the review of troops after the celebration of the anniversary of the emperor's coronation at Sebastopol say that 11 persons were killed, including five children, and that over a hundred persons were wounded. The dispatches also say that four arrests were made.

M. Shataloff, warden of prison here, was shot four times and mortally wounded by an 18-year-old youth who was executing a social revolutionist sentence in revenge for Shataloff's bad treatment of political prisoners. The assassin, whose name is Skutilmin, killed a beggar who tried to stop him, but afterward was arrested.

With anxiety society awaits the government's response to the bold action Saturday of the lower house of parliament, which in censuring the ministry and demanding its retirement was like a deliberate slap in the face and a direct challenge which the government can hardly avoid meeting. Parliament has burned the bridge and virtually has taken the step which the French states-general did when it transformed itself into a national convention. By flaunting the fundamental laws and declaring that it proposes to exercise full parliamentary rights with a responsible ministry, it has become in the eyes of the law a revolutionary body and from that position there seems no retreat. The news of the action of the house came like an electric shock, the people generally being as greatly surprised as the bureaucracy at the promptness with which the whole of the government's policy was absolutely scorned. Both sides recognize the acuteness and seriousness of the moment, but panic is in the government and not in the popular camp.

The constitutional Democratic chiefs are displaying calmness in the face of the crisis. They declare that having delivered their repy they propose to go calmly ahead with the work before them, forcing the government to take the initiative. The strength of their position lies in the conviction that the Russian nation, and especially the peasantry, who are sure to be discontented at the fiat concerning the expropriation of land, is behind parliament in its rejection of the government's policy.

The Social Democrats and Social Revolutionists are delighted at the turn of events, believing they furnish just the stimulus needed for the rising they are planning. The terrorists were quick to seize the opportunity for a series of blows in widely separated parts of the country. The attempts at Tiflis and Sebastopol are convincing indications of the determination of the fighting organization to resume its campaign of assassination with full vigor.

"The government, if it dares to fight," said M. Kokoshkine, one of the constitutional Democratic members of the house, "can disperse the parliament; but the victory of the bureaucracy would only be temporary. It would inevitably be followed shortly by a bloody revolution which would not leave a stick of the present government standing. The emperor must choose between a real constitutional government and the loss not only of his crown, but probably his head."

Killed an Assassin.

Tiflis, May 28.—While Governor General Timoseieff and Chief of Police Martinoff were driving bombs were thrown at them. Neither was injured, but a Cossack belonging to their escort was killed. The crime was attempted in the center of the town, a few rods from the scene of the assassination of General Griaznoff, chief of staff of the Caucasus, who was killed by a bomb explosion January 29 last. Chief of Police Martinoff, who was riding, revolver in hand, shot and killed one of the terrorists, but the other escaped. Governor General Timoseleff's coachman was wounded. The city is agitated, fearing an armed outbreak.

Bombs Thrown.

Sebastopol, May 28.—Several bombs were thrown here while a review of troops was being held after the Te Deum in celebration of the anniversary of the emperor's coronation. Three persons were killed and several wounded. Among the wounded were the commander of the fortress, General Neptueff, who received slight hurts, and the chief of police, who was gravely injured. Other high dignitaries escaped. Vice Admiral Chouknin, commanding the Black sea fleet, who is a special subject for terrorist revenge, was not present. Two of the bomb throwers were arrested.

WIRE FENCE FACTORY MEANS MUCH TO WARSAW

Wm. Whitely The Springfield "Reaper King" At The Big Meeting Saturday

In spite of the rain Saturday a large number of people from Coshocton and Knox counties were in Warsaw to greet William Whiteley, the Springfield reaper king who was there in the inteersts of the wire fence factory which he expects to build.

He arrived at 2:30 p. m. over the T. W. V. and O. and after making a brief address to the people he was driven over the proposed sites of the plant. A thorough inspection was made of the buildings already standing and plans discussed for the remodeling of these and the building of three new ones; two of these on the factory site and the other on Main street where the products will be exhibited and labor saving appliances for household work demonstrated.

Saturday evening Mr. Whiteley met Dr. More, James Beck, John Wagner, Evert Darling, John Stanton and D. F. Laughlin in Dr. Moore's office and the plans were gone over more in detail. It is hoped to begin work this week.

The building of this plant means much for Warsaw. Mr. Whiteley predicts wonderful advancement for the village within the next twelve months He says the building of the new plant, coupled with the deep interest the people are taking in it, means water works for fire protection, gas, the improvement of Main street and numerous other improvements which will make the town one of the hustling ones in this part of the state.

CONVENTION OF UNITED MINE WORKERS CALLED

Officials Held Conference In Columbus Sunday And Decided To Hold Big Meeting Friday—Settlement In Sight.

At a meeting Sunday, officers of the Ohio Mine Workers called a convention of the delegates to be held in Columbus next Friday.

There is nothing in the announcement to warrant a prediction as to the probable action which the miners will take, but if the developments of the past few days in the southwest, Illinois and Indiana and previously in the anthracite and Kanawha districts may be taken as a safe criterion, concessions will be made that will undoubtedly result in a settlement.

The decision of the officers is by far the most important since the suspension of work in the mines on April 1st.

The miners are told in the call that many complications have arisen effecting their interests, and these complications require prompt action.

The call in full reads:

The Liberals say they are confident that they will be able to sweep the country if the elections are honest. Governor Magoon accompanied the delegates to the station in Panama. On reaching Colon the delegation was welcomed by many Liberals.

Tariff Difficulty Settled.

Vienna, May 28.—Emperor Francis Joseph's unexpected return to Vienna last week appears to have resulted in a settlement of the tariff difficulty. A conference between Prince Conrad Hohenlohe-Schillingsfuert, Austrian premier and minister of the interior, and Dr. Wekerle, the Hungarian premier, was followed by a council at which the emperor presided, after which Premier Wekerle stated that the question of a common Austro-Hungarian customs tariff had been settled in a manner that was expected to satisfy both countries.

The assistance of the people, the courts and the interstate commerce commission, should the latter be rejuvenated by the Hepburn bill, will be sought. The fight in Ohio and the eastern part of the country will be carried on through the National Petroleum association, while a similar association will attend to the western end

INSPECTION OF PACKING PLANTS

President Roosevelt Sanctions Senator Beveridge's Offering.

Washington, May 28.—Senator Beveridge's amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill providing for government sanitary regulation and inspection of the meat packing industry is championed by President Roosevelt, and he is holding a club over the packers' heads in the shape of confidential reports of special commissioners who are said to have found startling conditions existing in the big packing plants at Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha and elsewhere. The inspection service, if enlarged as proposed by Senator Beveridge, would of course cost a great deal of money to maintain, and every dollar of the cost would have to be assumed by the packers. This expense is estimated to be a fraction of a cent a pound, but the only way the packers could get even would be to advance prices a full cent, and this is what may be expected.

In spite of this fact the president is determined to better the conditions in the packing houses. He believes the people would willingly pay the increased cost to feel sure that the meat they paid for was what it was represented to be and was manufactured under conditions which did not threaten the health of the community in any way.

Members of the senate are counting upon a very busy week. There are at least two appropriations measures ready for consideration, and the sea level canal bill, having been made the unfinished business, will be pressed as steadily as circumstances will permit. In addition conferees will be appointed on the railroad rate bill; the nomination of the president's assistant secretary, Mr. Barnes, to be postmaster of the city of Washington, will receive attention, and the bill declaring a policy in the matter of the purchase of Panama canal supplies will be considered.

The senate manifests a disposition to devote serious consideration of the canal type bill. When it is taken up Senator Kittredge will present in a speech of considerable length the reasons which impelled the majority of the committee on inter-oceanic canals to report in favor of the sea level plan. Tuesday Senator Millard, chairman of the canal committee, will present a report, giving the views of the minority members in favor of a lock canal.

Work on the sundry civil appropriation bill will begin in the national house this week. This bill is larger and carries more money than any preceding sundry civil act. The aggregate will be in the neighborhood of $90,000,000. The items relate to practically every branch of the public service, and consequently have a bearing in nearly every congressional district. For this reason there will be a great demand on the part of members to make speeches relating to items in the bill. That this demand may be met to the greatest extent, there will be every effort to confine general debate strictly to the measure. Chairman Tawney estimates that it will require fully a week to consider and pass the bill.

BILLS BORE NAMES OF BUSINESS FIRMS

Cashier in Collector's Office Makes Plenty of Trouble For Secret Service Men.

Washington, D. C., May 28—Special)—Secret Service detectives have just cleared up a money mystery that has been worrying the sub-treasury officials at Chicago and the authorities of the department at Washington for several weeks. Some time ago the sub-treasurer at Chicago discovered that all the bills of large denomination coming from the Collector of Customs at Detroit bore the names of business firms in ink. Whether it was some new advertising scheme or the deliberate work of some person with an ulterior object in view could not be ascertained. The statutes distinctly prohibit the printing, writing or impressing of any characters upon Uncle Sam's money, and as the incoming of the marked bills continued the secretary of the treasury handed the case over to Chief Wilkie of the secret service to run down. Agents of Mr Wilkie's bureau visited Detroit, where the bills came from, but for some time no clue could be obtained that indicated either the perpetrator or the object of the work. No bills of less than $50 were marked with the names of the business firms, and all the concerns "mentioned" on the faces of the bank notes were engaged in the foreign trade. Names of houses transacting a local business exclusively and having no dealings with the Collector of Customs never appeared on the greenbacks. It was observed, also, that the names were all written in the same hand. When the secret service men interviewed the managers of the firms whose names were found on the money, all of them professed absolute ignorance of the proceeding. Most of them were conversant with the law forbidding such treatment of good money they said, and the most searching investigation made in the counting rooms of these concerns resulted in no light. The collector of customs at Detroit said that he knew nothing of the strange handwriting; all he could vouch for was the fact that when the money was received from the business houses, it bore their names. At last, however, the mystery was cleared away. The clerk of one of the importing concerns happened to remember that when he made a payment at the collector's office, using a hundred dollar bill, the cashier who received the money wrote something on the corner of the note. The secret service men at once interviewed the cashier at the collector's office and he shouldered all the blame. He was new in the job, he said, and was not very familiar with big bills Therefore, in order to protect himself if any of them should ever prove to be counterfeit, he made it arule to mark every bill of $50 or over, with the name of the man from whom it was received. The collector of customs and the secret service men had a short heart to heart talk with that young cashier, and suggested that a better way to identify a big bill was to taken down its check number on a separate slip of paper. The name of the last holder of the bill could very easily be placed opposite the identifcation number, they told him, and in the event of trouble, he would be just as well protected as though he had written the name of the concern all over the faces and backs of the bills. The cashier promised to follow these instructions to the letter and the mysterious marking of large bills has ceased.

Read and Be Convinced

Just One of the Sincere Letters Written to Dr. Jackson by Honest People.—Saved their lives.

Mr. Oscar Buchanan, South Zanesville, O, writes: I can't say too much for the Jackson Remedies, as they surely saved the life of my wife and myself. Two years ago I had chronic liver trouble, indigestion and malaria, to such extent that I could scarcely go, I was so dull and drowsy I would go to sleep while driving my horses to town. I grew gradually worse, breathing was bad, heart troubled me, had poor circulation, and I decided it was only a matter of time with me. I tried eminent physicians but did not get any better. My wife had been cured of chronic liver trouble of years' standing by Dr. Jackson's Digestive and Liver Powders and Liver and Bowel Tonic and she advised me to try them. I did and they gave me relief at once. My appetite began to improve and I could eat anything my appetite called for with no distress or bloating and in one month I had regained my health and for the last year I have had good health."

The reason we cure cases like the above and many others where others have failed is because our powders are put up in doses sufficient and contain what nature needs to dissolve the food. Being in powder form they dissolve as soon as they reach the stomach, while tablets or pills won't do this as the stomach is often too weak. Our powders are made up of the ingredients found in healthy digestive organs. For free medical advice address A. L. Jackson, M. D., Zanesville, O. The powders are on sale by all druggists in 10c and $1.00 packages.

TEACHING AS A PROFESSION

A Heart-to-Heart Talk To The Young Lady Who Intends to Teach.

In years past practically the only occupation open to women with the exception of sewing and cooking, was teaching. For this reason and from the fact that such a position carried with it a certain amount of prestige and considerable influence it was often selected by those who were entire unqualified for any reasonable degree of success in the profession

Unless a girl has a thorough knowledge of what is required in the work, coupled with infinite patience and a love for children, she will surely fail. Because a girl is a good scholar it does not necessarily follow that she will be a successful teacher. She may possess the required knowledge, and yet wholly lack the faculty of imparting it.

Before deciding to be a teacher look well into the matter, and see whether or not you possess the requisite therefor.

If you do then leave no stone untumed to properly prepare yourself for your chosen profession. Aim to excel, and devote your best energies to reaching the top round of the ladder.

There is always room at the top for those who are progressive. This is strictly an era of specialization, therefore be a specialist in your line of work rather than a common plodder.

Do one thing well, rather than a number of things only fairly well.

Read the best educational works, attend the teachers' meetings. visit the schools of those whose methods you have heard commended, and if possible spend some time in a good training school.

Do not let the fact that "you do not intend to teach for the remainder of your life" defer you from putting forth the best that is in you.

Don't get in a rut, and that is what happens when no effort is made toward self-improvement.

Do your best, your very best, to improve and make each day's work show up better than the preceding one. Make your standard of excellence a high one and then live up to it. If you are of a mercenary turn of mind your reward will come from the realization that your salary is the highest on the list. but if you have higher ideals it will come from the fact that you have been able to do an immense amount of good for others, who in years to come will treasure your memory, and say "She was the best teacher and most brilliant woman I ever knew"—Zanesville Signal.

There is one thing that you can bank on The present day young women are keener, brighter, and better looking and more self-reliant and less dependent. They all take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents Tea or Tablets.

Isaac Miller, of Conesville, wishes it announced that he was not the Ike Miller, whose name appeared in the police court record last week on a charge of intoxication.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Beverly of Graustark

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON,

Author of "Graustark"

Copyright, 1904, by Dodd, Mead and Company

CHAPTER I.

FAR off in the mountain lands, somewhere to the east of the setting sun, lies the principality of Graustark, serene relic of rare old feudal days. The traveler reaches the little domain after an arduous, sometimes perilous, journey from the great European capitals, whether they be north or south or west—never east. He crosses great rivers and wide plains; he winds through fertile valleys and over barren plateaus; he twists and turns and climbs among somber gorges and rugged mountains; he touches the cold clouds in one day and the placid warmth of the valley in the next. One does not go to Graustark for a pleasure jaunt. It is too far from the rest of the world, and the ways are often dangerous because of the strife among the tribes of the intervening mountains. If one hungers for excitement and peril, he finds it in the journey from the north or the south into the land of the Graustarkians. From Vienna and other places almost directly west the way is not so full of thrills, for the railroad skirts the darkest of the danger lands.

Once in the heart of Graustark, however, the traveler is charmed into dreams of peace and happiness and—paradise. The peasants and the poets sing in one voice and accord, their psalm being of never ending love. Down in the lowlands and up in the hills the simple worker of the soil rejoices that he lives in Graustark; in the towns and villages the humble merchant and his thrifty customer unite to sing the song of peace and contentment; in the palaces of the noble the same patriotism warms its heart with thoughts of Graustark, the ancient. Prince and pauper strike hands for the love of the land, while outside the great, heartless world goes rumbling on without a thought of the rare little principality among the eastern mountains.

In point of area Graustark is but a mite in the great galaxy of nations. Glancing over the map of the world, one is almost sure to miss the infinitesimal patch of green that marks its location. One could not be blamed if he regarded the spot as a typographical or topographical illusion. Yet the people of this quaint little land hold in their hearts a love and a confidence that are not surpassed by any of the lordly monarchs who measure their patriotism by miles and millions. The Graustarkians are a sturdy, courageous race. From the faraway century when they fought themselves clear of the Tartar yoke to this very hour they have been warriors of might and valor. The boundaries of their tiny domain were kept inviolate for hundreds of years, and but one victorious foe had come down to lay siege to Edelweiss, the capital. Axphain, a powerful principality in the north, had conquered Graustark in the latter part of the nineteenth century, but only after a bitter war in which starvation and famine proved far more destructive than the arms of the victors. The treaty of peace and the indemnity that fell to the lot of vanquished Graustark have been discoursed upon at length in at least one history.

Those who have followed that history must know, of course, that the reigning princess, Yetive, was married to a young American at the very tag end of the nineteenth century. This admirable couple met in quite romantic fashion while the young sovereign was traveling incognito through the United States of America. The American, a splendid fellow named Lorry, was so persistent in the subsequent attack upon her heart that all ancestral prejudices were swept away, and she became his bride with the full consent of her entranced subjects. The manner in which he wooed and won this young and adorable ruler forms a very attractive chapter in romance, although unmentioned in history. This being the tale of another day, it is not timely to dwell upon the interesting events which led up to the marriage of the Princess Yetive to Grenfall Lorry. Suffice it to say that Lorry won his bride against all wishes and odds and at the same time won an endless love and esteem from the people of the little kingdom among the eastern hills. Two years have passed since that notable wedding in Edelweiss.

Lorry and his wife, the princess, made their home in Washington, but spent a few months of each year in Edelweiss. During the periods spent in Washington and in travel her affairs in Graustark were in the hands of a capable, austere old diplomat, her uncle, Count Caspar Halfont. Princess Volga reigned as regent over the principality of Axphain. To the south lay the principality of Dawsbergen, ruled by young Prince Dantan, whose half brother, the deposed Prince Gabriel, had been for two years a prisoner in Graustark, the convicted assassin of Prince Lorenz of Axphain, one time suitor for the hand of Yetive.

It was after the second visit of the Lorrys to Edelweiss that a serious turn of affairs presented itself. Gabriel had succeeded in escaping from his dungeon. His friends in Dawsbergen stired up a revolution, and Dantan was driven from the throne at Serros. On the arrival of Gabriel at the capital the army of Dawsbergen espoused the cause of the prince it had spurned, and, three days after his escape, he was on his throne, defying Yetive and offering a price for the head of the unfortunate Dantan, now a fugitive in the hills along the Graustark frontier.

CHAPTER II.

MAJOR GEORGE CALHOUN was a member of congress from one of the southern states. His forefathers had represented the same commonwealth, and so, it was likely, would his descendants, if there is virtue in the fitness of things and the heredity of love. While intrepid frontiersmen were opening the trails through the fertile wilds west of the Alleghanies a strong branch of the Calhoun family followed close in their footsteps. The major's great-grandfather saw the glories and the possibilities of the new territory. He struck boldly forward from the old Revolutionary grounds, abandoning the luxuries and traditions of the Carolinas for a fresh, wild life of promise. His sons and daughters became solid stones in the foundation of a commonwealth, and his grandchildren are still at work on the structure. State and national legislatures had known the Calhouns from the beginning. Battlefields had tested their valor, and drawing rooms had proved their gentility.

Major Calhoun had fought with Stonewall Jackson and won his spurs, and at the same time the heart and hand of Betty Haswell, the staunchest Confederate who ever made flags, bandages and prayers for the boys in gray. When the reconstruction came he went to congress, and later on became prominent in the United States consular service, for years holding an important European post. Congress claimed him once more in the early nineties, and there he is at this very time.

Everybody in Washington's social and diplomatic circles admired the beautiful Beverly Calhoun. According to his own loving term of identification, she was the major's "youngest." The fair southerner had seen two seasons in the nation's capital. Cupid, standing directly in front of her, had shot his darts ruthlessly and resistlessly into the passing hosts, and masculine Washington looked humbly to her for the balm that might soothe its pains. The wily god of love was fair enough to protect the girl whom he forced to be his unwilling, perhaps unconscious, ally. He held his impenetrable shield between her heart and the assaults of a whole army of suitors, high and low, great and small. It was not idle rumor that said she had declined a coronet or two, that the millions of more than one American Midas had been offered to her and that she had dealt gently but firmly with a score of hearts which had nothing but love, ambition and poverty to support them in the conflict.

The Calhouns lived in a handsome home not far from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Grenfall Lorry. It seemed but natural that the two beautiful young women should become constant and loyal friends. Women as lovely as they have no reason to be jealous. It is only the woman who does not feel secure of her personal charms that cultivates envy. At the home of Graustark's princess Beverly met the dukes and barons from the far east. It was in the warmth of the Calhoun hospitality that Yetive formed her dearest love for the American people.

Miss Beverly was neither tall nor short. She was of that divine and indefinite height known as medium; slender, but perfectly molded; strong, but graceful—an absolutely healthy young person, whose beauty knew well how to take care of itself. Being quite heart whole and fancy free, she slept well, ate well and enjoyed every minute of life. In her blood ran the warm, eager impulses of the south; hereditary love of ease and luxury displayed itself in every emotion; the perfectly normal demand upon men's admiration was as characteristic in her as it is in any daughter of the land whose women are born to expect chivalry and homage.

A couple of years in a New York "finishing school" for young ladies had served greatly to modify Miss Calhoun's colloquial charms. Many of her delightful "way down south" phrases and mannerisms were blighted by the cold, unromantic atmosphere of a seminary conducted by two ladies from Boston who were too old to marry, too penurious to love and too prim to think that other women might care to do both. There were times, however—if she were excited or enthusiastic—when pretty Beverly so far forgot her training as to break forth with a very attractive "yo' all," "suah 'nough" or "go 'long naow." And when the bands played "Dixie" she was not afraid to stand up and wave her handkerchief. The northerner who happened to be with her on such occasions usually found himself doing likewise before he could escape the infection.

Miss Calhoun's face was one that painters coveted deep down in their artistic souls. It never knew a dull instant; there was expression in every movement, in every look; life, vivacity, dwelt in the mobile countenance that turned the head of every man and woman who looked upon it. Her hair was dark brown and abundant; her eyes were a deep gray and looked eagerly from between long lashes of black; her lips were red and ever willing to smile or turn plaintive as occasion required; her brow was broad and fair, and her frown was as dangerous as a smile.

As to her age, if the major admitted, somewhat indiscreetly, that all his children were old enough to vote, her mother, with the reluctance born in women, confessed that she was past twenty, so a year or two either way will determine Miss Beverly's age so far as the telling of this story is concerned. Her eldest brother, Keith Calhoun (the one with the congressional heritage), thought she was too young to marry, while her second brother, Dan, held that she soon would be too old to attract men with matrimonial intentions. Lucy, the only sister, having been happily wedded for ten years, advised her not to think of marriage until she was old enough to know her own mind.

To Be Continued.

HORSE DIES IN STALL AFTER DRINKING HEARTILY

A big black horse purchased in Cleveland last Wednesday by Mr. Pocock, died at the Pocock barns about seven o'clock Sunday evening. The horse had been driven to the cab and was very warm when taken to the stables, and at once drank a large quantity of cold water. This did not seem to have any effect until in the evening, when in a few minutes it was dead. Dr. Laughlin was called but the horse was dead before he arrived.

DATTO DEAD,

Claim Army Officers Who Have Returned From Mindanao.

San Francisco, May 28—Concerning the report from Manila that Datto Ali, the rebel chief, is still alive, Lieutenants West and Remington have made statements. Both are with the Twenty-second infantry here and were with Captain McCoy in his march into Mindanao against Ali. They say that every man in Ali's stronghold was killed with the exception of a Moro boy. Ali's body was found in front of his house with 14 bullet wounds. Dr. Davis, the army surgeon with the expedition, examined the body and pronounced Ali dead. The body was identified as that of a Moro chieftian by two faithful guides, one of them a half brother of Ali's.

Princess Ena's Intercession.

Madrid, May 28.—The first notable act of Princess Ena of Battenberg since her arrival in Spain to become the bride of King Alfonso XIII has been to induce the king to pardon Fernando Levera, who was condemned to death after an expediting trial. The dramatic circumstances under which pardon was given after the condemned man was going to the gallows attracts widespread attention and further augments the popularity of Princess Ena. Levar was to have been executed in the neighboring town of Badapose, but the population solicited Princess Ena's intercession, and she spoke to the king, who consulted with his ministers and after a cabinet council the government resolved to grant the request, as it was the first petition the princess had made to Spain. Thereupon the king issued a pardon.

Boat Overturned.

Chicago, May 28—The overturning of a rowboat in the Desplaines river near Willow Springs, 20 miles south of here, resulted in the drowning of Charles Saenger, Robert Helden and Albert Brunke, all of Chicago. Miss Mary Rigney and Samuel Goldstein, who were also in the boat, were rescued. The bodies of Helden and Brunke were not recovered.

Drydock Dewey.

Washington, May 28.—Computations made by the bureau of navigation of the location of the Dewey drydock in the Indian Ocean on May 22 indicate that the Dewey has made an average of 100 miles a day since leaving the Straits of Babel Manded. This is regarded as particularly good time.

Attorney General Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri has attracted national attention on account of his vigorous efforts to expel the Standard Oil trust from the state. LOUISVILLE WITH LID ON Amusement Seekers and the Thirsty Put In an Unpleasant Sunday.

Louisville, Ky., May 28—For the first time in many years Louisville experienced a "dry" Sunday yesterday, state and city authorities putting on the lid in earnest. The streets and cars were filled with aimless Sabbath loungers, drifting from one point to anothers, vainly seeking the amusements and conveniences to which they have been accustomed. The absent-minded ones were easily discernible by the growth of beard which they had expected to have removed, not thinking to find the barber shops closed. The wise ones took to the tall grass with sundry bottles secured before Saturday midnight. Every placein the city and in the county where intoxicants are sold was with one exception closed tight The exception was a park conducted by a Hebrew, who observed Saturday as the Sabbath. He was arrested and will be tried, but was allowed to continue selling throughout the day, doing a roaring business as the news spread. Four other places where liquor is sold had been designated by the Retail Liquor Dealers association to test the law The proprietors of these were not only arrested, but the places were kept closed thereafter. Besides the saloons all barber shops, bowling alleys, billiard halls, theaters, grocery stores and, in fact, everything except hotels, drug stores and railroad and street car lines, were closed. Two free "sacred concerts" at the largest amusement park in Jefferson county were not molested, but none of the employes were permitted to work.

The ball park was crowded with spectators when the game between Louisville and Toledo was called, but after half an inning had been played the police arrested President Tebeau of Louisville, President Grillo of Toledo and all players and employes. Although bond was promptly given the park was ordered closed and resumption of play was not permitted. The validity of the statutes and ordinances under which the arrests were made will be thoroughly tested in the courts, but the authorities declare that in the meantime all places coming under the provisions of the laws will be kept tightly closed.

BRAVE SAILOR LADS WERE REMEMBERED

The impressive services which were conducted on the bridge which spans the Walhonding Sunday afternoon by the members of the Woman's Relief Corps assisted by Richard Lanning Post were witnessed by a large company of people. Quantities of flowers were thrown into the water in memory of the brave men who met death at sea during the civil war and whose bodies found a last resting place in the deep.

At the conclusion of this service a sermon appropriate to the day was preached by Rev. Maughiman of the M. E. church, Roscoe, after which the graves of dead comrades in the Roscoe cemtery were decorated.

In the evening the third memorial sermon of the day was preached by Rev. Dillin of Union chapel. The pretty little church edifice was well filled and the sermon was teeming with beautiful truths well expressed. A solo by Miss Lillian Dillon was a pleasing feature of the service.

It Costs More to Prepare the Surface

than to do the repainting itself, if the original paint was not Pure White Lead and Pure Linseed Oil. This is the only paint which is elastic enough and tough enough, in spite of climatic changes, to wear smoothly and evenly right down to the surface, leaving it free and uniform, all ready for the painter to begin his work when repainting is finally necessary.

A paint adulterated with barytes, yellow ochre, zinc and other substitutes for Pure White Lead, is inevitably stiff and brittle; and changes in temperature make it blister, crack and peel. Long before such paint has worn away, repainting becomes a necessity, on account of the many places left exposed. Yet, before repainting can be done, the blotchy, uneven surface must be scraped or burned till the smooth surface of the wood itself is reached. This requires much of the painter's valuable time, and is attended with no little risk from fire.

Avoid this expensive process and the danger which it always involves, by insisting on Pure White Lead in the first place. Don't leave any loophole; specify the brand:

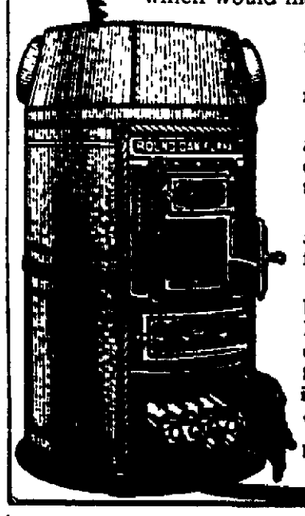
The Fuel Question

Every one who has a house to heat is interested in any method to cut down fuel expenses, or to get more heat from the same amount of fuel.

The Round Oak Furnace

accomplishes this in four different ways, any one of which would make a very noticeable difference.



1st. There is no waste heat—all the heat furnished is sent into the house.

2nd. It will hold a uniform fire—low or raging hot—longer than any other.

3rd. It will keep the house warm all the time—never allowing it to become cold at night and so doubling its work the next day.

4th. It burns all the gases and smoke which is equivalent to more fuel.

Write for our free descriptive book "Warmth and Comfort." Heating plans furnished free of charge, giving proper location of furnace, of cold and warm air intakes, size of pipes and all details.

MERCURY A DECEPTIVE TREATMENT

Mercury and potash are very deceptive treatments and the blood poison sufferer who depends on them for a cure is sure to be disappointed. These minerals will remove the external symptoms and shut the disease up in the system for a while, but the trouble will surely return and the loathsome symptoms of sore mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, falling hair, sores and ulcers etc., will be accompanied by the disastrous effects of the treatment. The continued use of these strong minerals will completely ruin the health and weaken the system to such an extent that the original disease often becomes incurable and sometimes fatal. Mercury and potash eat out the delicate lining of the stomach and bowels, destroy the gastric juices, producing chronic dyspepsia, cause mercurial Rheumatism, salivation, and where they are taken in large quantities cause necrosis or decay of the bones. S. S. S. is the only remedy that can cure Contagious Blood Poison surely and safely. This remedy of nature, made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, antidotes and destroys the powerful virus of the disease and by purifying the blood of every particle of the poison and enriching and strengthening this vital fluid it removes every symptom and leaves the body in a strong, healthy condition. When the blood has been purified with S. S. S. the cure is complete, and not one vestige of the poison is left for future outbreaks. Do not waste valuable time, and damage your health with the mineral treatment, but cure your case with S. S. S., an absolutely safe remedy. We offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that S. S. S. contains a particle of mineral. Book with instructions for self treatment and medical advice without charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Wait For Hunger

Good Advice from C. E. Anderson as to How to Create an Appetite.

Any physician will tell you that it is unwise to eat unless one is really hungry. It it far better to miss a meal than to eat without appetite.

But do not take a tonic, stimulant, or appetizer to make you hungry. C. E. Anderson says that the best way to create an appetite is to restore the digestion to health by the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, a reliable remedy that he has sold with the best of satisfaction.

When Mi-o-na is used, the irritation and inflammation of the stomach coating will be soothed, the gastric follicles will be strengthened so that they will pour out the natural digestive fluids with regularity, and the food you eat will be perfectly digested without distress.

A large box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets is sold for 50 cents by C. E. Anderson, and it is so successful and reliable in curing indigestion and other stomach troubles, with the exception of cancer of the stomach, that he sells it under a guarantee that the money will be refunded unless it does all that is claimed for it.

INNOVATION ON MUSKOKA LAKES

Those who patronize the Muskoka Lakes in the "Highlands of Ontario" during the summer season will be glad to know that the Muskoka Navigation Company have added to their fleet a fine new steel twin-screw steamer, 152 feet long, with a carrying capacity of 800 people. The new boat is called the "Sagamo." Her design is known as the day boat observation type, her deck space and cabins being so constructed as to afford passengers an opportunity of seeing the scenery from all sides.

Steamer will be fitted out in the most modern style, having a dining-room on main deck, which will accommodate ninety people.

Steamer is electrically lighted, steered by steam, and will have a speed of sixteen miles per hour.

This new boat will run in connection with the Grand Trunk Railway System's "Midnight Special" from Buffalo, which arrives Muskoka Wharf early in the morning, the boat leaving there at 7 a. m. every day for Port Cockburn via Beaumaris, Port Carling, Windermere, Royal Muskoka, Morinus, Minett, Port Sandfield and the principal points on Lake Joseph, returning to Muskoka Wharf about 7:45 p. m. to connect with the south-bound train.

It is expected that the steamer will be put into commission about June 15th, and the Muskoka "Midnight Special" of the Grand Trunk will go into service on June 29th. July 1

EXCELLENT TALK TO OLD SOLDIERS

Rev. Jones Of The Christian Church Spoke To Veterans Sunday Morning.

Rev. Jones of the Christian church delivered the following memorial Sunday morning.

"Memorial Sermon to the Old Soldiers."

Scripture Lesson, Josh 4, 1 to 9. Text Josh. 6. "What Mean ye these Stones." It has become a fixed custom with the American people, to set apart a day in the spring-time, on which to kneel reverently with cool and fragrant bandages of flowers to bind up the wounds of battle. Last week the south and this week the north, in great and solemn ceremony, marched to the final resting places of their departed heroes, and cast above them their yearly tributes of love, honor and reverence. Just a few weeks ago the remains of John Paul Jones were interred at Annapolis after having reposed in an unknown French grave for over a hundred years, there were many beautiful and eloquent tributes paid to our first Admiral of the Navy and the hero of our first sea-battle. Therefore, in the midst of these holiday ceremonies, we deem it fitting to and ask ourselves what we mean by this service. For unless it has a broader significance for us than that of a mere national holiday, we feel that it will be spent in vain. Let us hope then that not one of us will arrange a flower or unfurl a flag next Wednesday without asking seriously why we do it? Stop before entering into the work of the day or pleasure the occasion and say, "What do I mean by celebrating this day? What influence will it have on me to day, and what effect shall it have on my future thoughts and actions?"

In the first place, we believe that our Decoration Day celebration means that the American people, in spite if their seeming indifference, are nevertheless deeply religious. Men of practical affairs some times declare, that we as a nation have no religion. But because we have here in this country no established church, it does not necessarily follow that the religious sentiment in us is dying. We believe indeed that there is a religion of the American people which is as dear to us as the religion which made Jerusalem sacred and dear to the Jews. The establishment of a day of sacred memory, in which we may come together and feel ourselves united in the thought of that which is infinite and holy proves that we look with faith towards the city that hath eternal foundations. The most sacred service of christianity, and the one which amid all changes has endured is a memorial service. Christians today of every name and creed, look back to the one man-loved honored alike by all, who said:

"Do this in Remembrance of Me."

We Americans today likewise have our own communion service, which is sacred to us as citizens of this republic. It is a blessed thing that there is one time of the year when we can come together as one great family, to remember those who have gone before, and to bless God for what they were and for what they have done. And it is through this gateway of the memory, that we enter into the Holy of Holies of our national life So we believe first of all that the universal observance of Decoration day, means that we consciously and Nationally honor and revere the everlasting qualities of the soul.

In the second place we trust that the day's service may mean a glorification of the blessings of peace, rather than the celebration of the victories of war, while it is true that one of the bloodiest war, in history has just closed in the far east, still it seems high time for all civilized nations of the world to substitute arbitration and treaty in the place of carnage and strife For the man who said that "War is Hell;" spoke words of truth that will never be forgotten

A lady once asked the Duke of Wellington what victory was like; to which the Duke promptly replied; "Victory madam is the greatest tragedy in the world, except defeat." Such was the way that Waterloo looked to victor and champion of that bloody field.

While it may be true that there have been wars that seemed inevitable and necessary, still out of every hundred wars, ninty-nine of them were not necessary. And if intelligence and justice had prevailed forty-five years ago, there could have been no civil war. Then as we come to the day in which the memory of music of the fife and the drum, the thundering of cannon, the waving of banners and the applause of thousands will be revived let us forget the tragedy of both defeat and victory, and return thanks to Almighty God for the blessing of peace.

Next Wednesday the graves of the veterans all over this magnificent land and country will be made beautiful by the

which gentle hands will lay above them. But while we stand by the last resting place of our departed heroes, let us swear by those rose covered graves our eternal disapproval of war which is the champion curse of mankind. Let the omnipotent hand of God's indignation strike it down for ever and ever. Why? It is the spoiler of nations, the corruptor of manhood, the ravisher of homes, and the cruel breaker of loving hearts. Then let war be imprisoned in the deepest dungeon of eternal oblivion; and let it be bolted there with all the iron it has ever caused to be forged into musket and cannon and with all the steel it has ever caused to be beaten into bayonet and saber. And let these old weapons, be looked upon as relics of our former barbarism, rather than trophies of our present honor. So then let us not go to our cemeteries to glorify war but go farther for the glorification of that peace and safety which the war has brought to us. And by thus acting we are reminded of that peace which is the "Wonderful gift of God's love." The day means harmony between the two sections of our country that were once enemies, but now we find confidence, friendship, hospitality and love. Yes, we have unity of industry, unity of purpose, unity of interest, unity of aspiration and unity of hope for the future In 1863 you could not pass the line between the contestants with out fighting your way with keen steel or else going through by passes carefully scruntinized at every step by the bayonet. But now all you need is a railroad ticket from New York to Charleston, or from Chicago to Galveston, and you can go clear through unmolested; and the only weapon you need to use, is a steel pen with which to let them know that you were coming and they will prepare for you a hearty welcome. Some fifteen years ago, during President Cleveland's administration, a suggestion was made that all the captured confederate flags then in existence, be sent back south and given to the remnant of the regiments from which they were taken. At that time a mere suggestion of such a thing, created such a howl of protest and indignation all over the north, that the move was nipped in the bud and hushed up. But only last year the same question came up again and the authorities voted in the affirmative; so the old flags weer

and sent back home without protest, and almost without newspaper comment. Those old flags were unfurled last week at their memorial service, to help inspire the southern youth to a greater feeling of pride in his country, and to a keener sense of loyalty to the union. By this returning of the old flags, both the north and the south have expressed a feeling that seem impossible a few years ago So the two sections have sealed another bond of friendship which was never felt before We have no more use of gunpowder in this country, except for the shooting of roebucks in the Adirondacks, or lion and bear in the rockies. Then soldiers of the Grand Army of the Repulic, who are present here today and soldiers that fought on the other side far away in the land of Dixie, I greet you all today with the gospel of peace, as we stand together under the flag or eternal friendship. It matters not whether you wore the color suggested by the blue of the noon-day's zenith, or that suggested by the gray of the morning sky, you are now all one in the kindly feeling of brotherhood. Then I bid you all who survive on both sides, to take a new pride in beautifying the mounds of your departed comrades. Nothing is too good for them memories; so turn all the private tombs and national cemeteries into gardens of fragrance and beauty. And say, Ye silent dead of Malvern Hill Cole Harbor, Vicksburg, Cumberland Gap, Gettysburg and Winchester, this day means that your surviving comrades of both the blue and the gray can meet about your peaceful resting places, and shake hands as friends and brothers by the side of your rose-covered graves and thus declare that between them strife shall be forgotten.

Decoration Day also means that we honor and revere manly courage, whether it be found in the excited ranks of war, or at the quiet post of homely duty. Then if we pass through the day without having our appreciation for manly and womanly courage enlarged, we will prove ourselves unworthy of our heritage. Most of the soldiers on both sides of the conflict of the sixties were not conscripts but volunteers, and the fact that they lie in a soldier's grave today, is a sufficient proof of their bravery. They were brave at the front, brave at the cannon's mouth, brave on lonely-picket duty, brave under the hand of the surgeon, brave in to wife and mother, and brave in their respect for the courage of their enemies. It is reported that on a certain occasion the federals were being driven back in swift retreat, when one of their officers dropped wounded on the field. One of his men stopped at the risk of his own life, and put his arm around the officer to assist him out of the way of danger. In an instant fifty confederate muskets were leveled at this young private. But quick as a flash the confederate captain shouted: "Hold! Don't fire- For that man is too brave to be shot." And as the two went limping off the field, the whole victorious company sent up a heroic cheer for the brave private; and just before the two disappeared behind a neighboring barn, they both turned and lifted their caps in a salute of gratitude to the confederate captain who had saved their lives. That is what we believe to be fit to call

Glorified Bravery.

True courage always appreciates bravery even though it fights on the opposite side If any of you had been last week in Savannah or Richmond, we know that your heart and sympathy would have been large enough to march in the floral procession to the cemetery with your old time enemies, but now your friends and brothers in that which stands for manhood and patriotism, and joined with them in honoring their comrades. And if next Wednesday a true confederate veteran should be walking in your midst, we know that he would express the emotion of his soul by putting a flower on the silent chambers of the dead.

So the day means a reverence for bravery, in battle, in either victory or defeat, and a reverence of that still larger bravery which is great enough to forget and forgive. Then this day's service stands, not only for the unity and liberty of the nation; but it also stands for the freedom of every man and woman in it We are cramped by no system of caste, nor are we commanded by any tyrant. It means then not only freedom from abuse and oppression, but it means freedom of thought, action and word, and freedom in religion and freedom to develop our own resources, talents and powers. Our liberty has been bought by as precious blood that has ever coursed through human veins; with these thoughts in our minds we should be made nobler and truer citizens, and too we as individuals, have a noble ancestry. Our fathers of 1776. 1812 and 1865, were all men of courage and patriotism. They were not only willing to fight for their country, but they had the heroism to die if need be for her safety. Then, Decoration Day, is not simply to have a good time, but we and honor the lives of as noble men as ever lived on the face of the earth.

If a stranger from abroad should approach you next Wednesday and say what do you mean by this service? At once you can say: It means that I am a son or daughter of a hero, and that I have a courageous ancestry. This day's exercises means that I am proud of their deeds, and that I find pleasure in honoring their memory.

Yet with all the music, the oratory, and the flowers, of this day's service will soon be consigned to the things of the past. But the tombs and the monuments men will decorate with flags and flowers when we have passed from the stage of action. Then it is well for us to consider what they stand for. So we ask today what mean ye by these piles of stone and these monuments we have erected?

Let us see what the old Hebrew historian said that his national monument stod for. He said when your children shall ask what mean ye by these stones, then ye shall say to them, here is where the power of God came to the rescue of man, and these stones stand for a divine intervention through the life of a great man for the safety and preservation of this people. And that is what our own monuments stand for today. They commemorate the life and deeds of some heroic man that stands for an ideal, which it is our duty and privilege to strive for and fulfill. I well remember the first time of visiting Washington's monument in Washington, D. C and as I stood and looked upon that massive monument of five hundred and fifty feet high, built of stones of every state of the union, the sun passed beyond the western horizon, and the heavens were tinged with the golden ray of a setting sun, the monument that stood in memory of the father of our country, was kissed by the last lingering light of the sun and bade it good night. I thought that a great man has lived and left good impressions upon the hearts of men. Yes, it means more than that, it means that the days of monarchy in this country have passed away. It means that we as a nation prize manhood, and that this people voice the vote of intelligence and right, as was verified last fall after George B. Cox, threatened the people of God. We have no divine ruler but the God of heaven and earth. The monuments stands not only for the one man whose name they bear; but they stand for the honor of many men, of whom the one named one them was the best representative. Thus they stand high as an ideal of manly and womanly virtues. It is true that next Wednesday in this neighborhood, you will decorate no graves without knowing who it is that lies beneath the sacred sod. But if you were to visit the national cemeteries at Arlington Heights, Richmond, Gettysburg, and Winchester, you would see the pathetic inscription: "Unknown," written upon many of the slabs.

It seems to me that the government would do well to erace that epitaph For they are no more unknown. We have found them out at last. They are the beloved sons of this republic. All religions, and nations, have their heroes. Buddhism has her Buddh Confuciusism has for Confucius, Lutherism has her Luthor, Methodism has her Wesley, and this organization has her O'Kelley. Russia her Zar, Germany her King, England her Queen, and America her Washington and Lincoln. Then let the goodess of liberty hold high in one hand the olive branch of peace, and with the other hand point down to the graves, of both the known and the unknown and say these are my sons who died that I might live

Now dear brother and sister as we are soon to do homage to our beloved dead, and participate in the great feast of enthusiasm and patriotism, let each one of us pick up a stone of love, virtue and honor, and place them as trophies at the feet of because we have long since learned that the 'Hand that rocked the cradle ruled the world." She remained at home, but her aching heart, her patriotic spirit, and her spirit of prayer, the mightest weapon that God ever gave, was with father, husband, son and brother, both in camp and in battle.

Though today we have no material monument erected to her memory but there is an invisible monument erected to her in the great heart of this Republic and when the stars and stripes are floating in the morning air, they are only half mast when compared with the white, of which is a type of the spirit of American Womanhood. There is a flower in Texas that has been recently discovered, that under all circumstances of storm and sunshine the pedicel of which point northward.

Then, Americans of this grand and noble republic, after having passed through the storm of war and strife, and are now resting in the blessed sun shine of peace and love, pray that our lives may ever point to the star of Bethlehem. And say, "Thou two, sail on oh, ship of state, sail on oh, union grand and great. Humanity with all of its fears with all the hope of future years. Is hanging breathless on thy fate." And thus be inspired, to live for virtue, truth and justice. And be ready to meet in that last reunion of peace and love, and pitch our tents in the camp of everlasting bliss.

Maud and the Muck Rake

Maud Muller on a summer's day
Raked the meadow sweet with hay.

Her pa was not a man of weath,
All that she had was rugged health.

Sighing, she said: "Confound the luck
I think I'll go to raking muck."

Because she tolled, a wild unrest
And an eager longing filled her breast

"Why should I have to work, she cried,
"While others scorn me in their pride?"

"With riches they have never earned
Their backs on me are proudly turned

"The good Lord never planned things so,
There's something rotten here below.

"An Ida Tarbell I will be
And whack the platocrats," said she.

The Judge appeared upon the scene,
Bringing an odor of gasoline.

He stopped to buzz the girl awhile;
She was plump, and he rather liked her style.

She knew that he possessed a wad,
He thought: "How sweet a name is Maud!"

He spoke of railroad stocks he had
The maiden listened and was glad.

"In two years, if my luck is fair."
He said, "I'll be a millionaire.

"I travel on passes through the land—"
Maud sweetly said. "Oh, ain't that grand!"

"As far as rebates go, I'll say
That I regard them as O. K.
"A block of Standard stock I claim—
No matter how I got the same.

"Now, tell me, Maud, and tell me true
Don't I look rather good to you?"

Her face against his breast she hid,
And gladly answered that he did.

Today she is the Judge's wife
And lives in style, enjoying life.

And oft she wonders in her pride
Why people can't be satisfied.

"Why," she complains, "do critics pitch
So foolishly into the rich?

"Why do they ever scold or sigh
Because the things they need are high?

"Wise Providence has planned affairs
We rich, also have money cares

"But why we nobly bear the strain,
Why should the ones below complain?

"Of all wise words, the best by far
Is: "Take things meekly as they are"

BUILT UP HER HEALTH

SPEEDY CURE OF MISS GOODE

She Is Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Writes Gratefully to Mrs. Pinkham.

For the wonderful help that she has found Miss Cora Goode, 255 E. Chicago Avenue, Chicago, Ill., believes it her duty to write the following letter for publication, in order that other women afflicted in the same way may be benefited as she was. Miss Goode is president of the Bryn Mawr Lawn Tennis Club of Chicago. She writes;

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I tried many different remedies to build up my system, which had become run down from loss of proper rest and unreasonable hours, but nothing seemed to help me. Mother is a great advocate of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles, having used it herself some years ago with great success. So I began to take it, and in less than a month I was able to be out of bed and out of doors, and in three months I was entirely well. Really I have never felt so strong and well as I have since."

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), displacement of organs, inflammation or ulceration, can be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Her experience is very great, and she gives the benefit of it to all who stand in need of wise counsel. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

BAD BREATH

"For months I had great trouble with my stomach and used all kinds of medicines. My tongue has been actually as green as grass, my breath having a bad odor. Two weeks ago a friend recommended Cascarets and after using them I can willingly and cheerfully say that they have entirely cured me. I therefore let you know that I shall recommend them to any one suffering from such troubles."

Lightning Strikes in the Midst of a Crowd at Ball Game.

Mobile, Ala., May 28.—During a ball game in an open field three miles from this city a thunderstorm came up, accompanied by vivid lightning, which struck in the midst of the crowd of spectators, instantly killing five and injuring 25, some seriously. The dead are: Donald Touart, aged 21; Steven Touart, aged 19, sons of Steven J. Touart; Arthur Moody, aged 19; two negroes, John Green and Charles Thomas. Seriously injured: John Yokers, Fred Johnston, Fred Burch, Joe Dolbear, George Cleveland. At least 15 or 20 others were shocked and knocked down, who quickly recovered and were able to leave the scene. Beaches 17; Schlahs 9.

The big game scheduled between the Beaches and Schlahs at Riverside park Saturday afternon turned out to be anything but a good game of base ball.

The score 17 to 9 tells the whole story of the game and as the Beaches got away with the long end, they still retain an undisputed lead at the top of the race and with a clean record of five victories.

The weather would not permit of good baseball. During the whole afternoon Jupiter Pluvious shed tears. Not enough to send the players to shelter but enough to keep the leather wet and hard to handle not only the pitchers but anyone that got hold of it. The infield was not so bad when the game was started but the outfield was "punk." During the latter half of the game however, the infielders could not get proper footing and lots of runs was the result.

The game went to the bad in the first inning. Ricketts was sent to the firing line by the Schlahs. It soon developed that it was not the big fellow's day to pitch for he was not only wild as a March hare but when he did get 'em over, the wily Beaches connected with a vengeance. Tish the first man up "binged" one to right center for two bases and was immediately followed by Ehrich with one over second base, Tish scoring. Jennings was safe on Smith's "fooole.' Davis got a walk. Todd connected for a safe drive, Ehrich and Jennings both counting. Akeroyd caught one in the ribs and N. Dixon was safe on first while Akeroyd was being caught at second on the former's "banging" the ball to Gehring. Caton also got one in the ribs. S. Dixon made the second out. Tish then got his second safety for the inning both Todd and Caton scoring. Ehrich hit one to Caldwell. Seven runs were the result of the slaughter and Smith was sent in the next inning. He also got his.

In the seventh inning the Beaches again chalked up seven tallies. Smith's balloon going as high as Rickett's did in the first inning. On the other hand, Davis pitched a steady game his support being rank in the fourth and eighth innings in which the Schlahs annexed a trio of tallies each.

According to the dope sheet, the Beaches were somewhat crippled as three of their strongest men were missing from the lineup; that is Ross, Gorsline and Carnes. Carnes was slated to pitch but Davis went into the box while Todd took his old place at first base instead of Gorsline and Jennings of the Buckeye team, took Ross's place at second.

Each of the three men gave a good account of himself, however and gave the lie to the dope sheet.

The score follows:

Franklin 6; Warsaw 4.

There was joy, barrels of joy in Franklin town Saturday night after the bunch of baseball lads who have been working hard under not a few difficulties, for the past five Saturdays for victory, were successful at last and trimmed up Warsaw in one of the best played games of the season.

It rained and only seven innings were played but during that time the fans were treated to a real baseball game in the battle between the two pitchers, Buckless and Hankins.

Hankins is a new man Warsaw has secured from the West Carlisle vicinity and he showed that he could deliver the goods by holding down Franklin to four safeties. He was not given what could be called brilliant support. What won the game for Franklin however, was the gilt-edged tossing of Buckless, who outpitched ever Hankins by holding Warsaw to three singles, and the terrifice slugging of Thompson, his catcher. "Tommie" connected twice in three times up, once for two bases and again for three sacks, scoring both times. Only two errors were made behind Buckless, both being fly balls dropped in the outfield.

Thompson, Duve and Carter, of the Lewisville team were sent to Franklin to fill vacant spaces in the lineup.

Both teams started off with a rush in the first inning, Warsaw getting three men over the pan and Franklin going them one better in their half.

Then both teams settled down. Franklin annexed another in the third and Warsaw one in the sixth. In the first half of the seventh, Warsaw had two men on the bags with only one man down and chances were good to tie the game. A spectacular finish however, ended the agony when the next man up put a hot one at Shortstop Carter. He scooped up the leather, shot it to Inskip who put it over to Harris completing a double play and the game was ended.

Notes of the Game at Riverside.

The Beaches kept up their habit of running up big scores.

Can't anyone stop the Beach winning streak?

Stewart kept up his slugging. His two hits were both over the fence for two-sackers.

Caldwell allowed the bottom to drop out of his big batting average. He conected safely but once out of five times up.

The fans appealed to the fire department twice. In the first and seventh.

In both the first and seventh innings there were eleven Beaches to bat.

In the fourth inning, every man on the Schlah team went to bat. At that only three men scored, the bases being full when the last man was retired.

There was plenty of kicking from the spectators on the umpiring of McCurio who filled in Prince's place but Mike about evened up for both sides before the game finished.

It seemed to the spectators as if Smith was playing for the rain during the third and fourth innings, but it wouldn't rain.

Tish got two safe hits in the first and Todd did the same thing in the seventh.

Every man on the Beach line-up crossed the plate at least once.

If it wasn't Ricketts' day in the box he certainly put up a nice game at short where he handled six chances cleanly.
